Webinars

Strategies for Successful Test Taking

- Description: Preparing for a certification or licensure examination can be daunting. Questions like: What do I study? What will the questions be like? What topics will be included on the examination are frequently asked by test takers. This webinar, produced in partnership with Orion Healthcare Technology, is designed for any individual who expects to take a certification or licensure in the future and would like some assistance preparing for it. Topics will include: the expectations of certification/licensure testing, the mechanics of multiple-choice questioning and research regarding successful examination completion and options available for test preparation, including formal education and manualized study. The presenter will also review levels of certification/licensure available in reference to ethics and scopes-of-practice and discuss in the typical state and national certification/licensure process, including the National Certification Commission (NCC) domain areas of testing for the NCAC I, NCAC II and MAC levels.
