WHAT IS THE ONLINE COMMUNITY?
NAADAC’s Online Community is a virtual platform that allows NAADAC Members to connect and engage with fellow addiction professionals. This interactive community is the perfect place for addiction professionals to connect with peers, share ideas and resources, and make global connections.

WHAT CAN YOU DO IN THE ONLINE COMMUNITY?
• Post messages in community forums and discussion threads. Topics range from diversity, equity, and inclusion in addiction counseling and career motivation to cannabis use disorder.
• Network and communicate about shared interests with addiction professionals from across the country and all around the world.
• Engage with local addiction professionals by joining state-specific communities.
• Earn badges and ribbons that will show your NAADAC and addiction professional pride.
• Find and connect with thousands of NAADAC Members in the NAADAC Member Directory.
• Ask your peers questions, share experiences, and receive information that will help you better serve your clients.
• Join specialist communities like the Peer Support Specialists Community and the Student and Educators Community.
• Build a profile, just like you may have done on social media platforms.
• And so much more!

While everyone can access the NAADAC Online Community, ONLY NAADAC Members can read entire conversation threads, start new conversations, message other people on the platform, access the member directory, and fully interact with the online platform.
